Word of Life

“Throughout salvation history, God has welcomed repentant with special joy. Jesus concludes the parable of the lost sheep with these words:

‘There will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents than over ninety-nine righteous people who have no need of repentance.’

Stewardship Education and Reflections on the Weekly Mass Readings

Jesus addresses His disciples saying, “Whoever wishes to come after me must deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me.” We are Jesus’ disciples, and He is speaking those same words to us here and now.

Living a life of discipleship is not always easy. It requires us to be imitators of Christ — who suffered, died, and rose from the dead out of total love for each one of us. This means we are called to share in Christ’s sufferings by taking up our cross and following Him daily.

But what does this look like in our day-to-day lives?

We can start by making a firm resolution to follow Christ today, here and now, and renewing that resolution each day when we rise. This requires time with Him each day — speaking and listening.

We should also strive to pick up our crosses each day with Christ by our side. Our cross might be suffering from an illness, fighting an addiction, a day of screaming kids, or a period where things just don’t seem to go our way. Instead of avoiding these sufferings or complaining about them, we are called to carry them with Christ, allowing Him to transform us through them.

If we live life constantly focused on us, we will ultimately lose ourselves, but if we surrender our lives for Christ and His mission, we will gain eternal life and become more alive than we could have ever imagined, “For whoever wishes to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake and that of the gospel will save it.” This takes daily commitment and requires endurance in our faith, which can only be done through active discipleship.

A Reflection from Love and Serve

This Week's Readings | USCCB

Father Mike Schmitz is the Director of Youth and Young Adult Ministry for the Diocese of Duluth and the Newman Center Chaplain and Campus Minister for the University of Minnesota Duluth. A Catholic priest and popular speaker renowned for his approachable style of discussing the Catholic faith, vocations, relationships, morality, and the challenges of living out one's faith. Check out his videos, podcasts, and articles online if you haven't yet. In a podcast I listened to this week, he mentioned that the motto for the Newman Center where he serves is "See a need, fill a need." Many serve our church community, and their involvement is essential to the life and growth of the Church. Members of the church participate in catechesis, pastoral councils, and liturgical ministries, including altar servers, choir members, and Eucharistic ministers. These individuals see a need, and they fill it. Others bring flowers to beautify the altar, serve as greeters and ushers, and volunteer for Youth activities. They, too, see a need and fill it. Occasionally, churches have capital campaigns to repair or replace boilers or roofs, and members fill that need by providing the funds required to maintain church facilities. You can say that these members have also taken up the motto "See a need, fill a need."

Our New Testament Reading for today is taken from the Letter of James. The Letter's central theme revolves around the relationship between faith and works, asserting that genuine faith is demonstrated through acts of love and charity toward others. "What good is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? Can that faith save him? If a brother or sister has nothing to wear and has no food for the day, and one of you says to them, "Go in peace, keep warm, and eat well," but you do not give them the necessities of the body, what good is it?" (James 2:14-16). Reflect for a moment on the rhetorical question posed by James: What good is it if someone says he has faith but does not have works? Is my affirmation of faith without loving and serving others sufficient for my salvation? How do I respond when I see others in need? Jesus called out the Religious saying: "they preach but they do not practice." (Matthew 23:3b).

Society constantly reminds us of self-care. Focusing our attention on our own care and well-being can lead us to close ourselves and become insensitive to the needs of others. The sheer amount of people and needs calling for our attention and resources can be overwhelming. When Jesus was concerned about the well-being of the crowd of five thousand and asked His disciples to feed them, they thought: "Where can we buy enough food for them to eat?" We need to entrust our resources and works to the hands of God when we are stirred to fill needs in our community.

Individually, let us take charge and assume personal responsibility for the needs we can voluntarily and generously engage with. "See a need, fill a need."

Go in Peace to Love and Serve the Lord.

Ephesians was one of St. Paul's most widely circulated writings because of its powerful, practical instructions for disciples of Christ. In fact, its six short chapters contain some of the most discussed passages in the New Testament.

Ephesians: Discover Your Inheritance examines several themes that are of special concern to Christians in today's culture and society—the nature of marriage, the purpose and role of the Church, the preeminence of grace in God's plan, and the reality of spiritual warfare.

Presenter Jeff Cavins explores what Paul's letter to the Ephesians tells us about the nature of the Church—as a body, as a household, as a mystery, as a communion, as a bride, and as an army. Ephesians: Discover Your Inheritance shows the treasures that await us as adopted sons and daughters in the family of God.
